Risks are evolving at an unprecedented rate, from geopolitical instability and cyber attacks to climate change and technological disruption. To stay ahead, organizations must build a risk culture that is agile, adaptive, and ready to navigate the unknown.

Let's discover more about “Balancing Risk Attitude: Navigating the tension between innovation and stability” with Satpal Singh, Chief Governance and Risk Officer at PLUS Malaysia.

He will discuss the delicate balance between risk-taking and stability in organizations. While innovation is essential for growth, it also introduces risk. Conversely, stability is necessary for sustainability, but can stifle innovation. We will explore strategies for balancing risk-taking and stability in decision-making processes, and how to foster a culture that encourages innovation while managing risk.
